The committee met on Tuesday to review the proposal for the new library building. Members asked about the schedule, the budget and the plan for the parking area.

The architect explained that construction would begin after the winter season ends. A vote on the final design is planned for the next regular meeting of the council.

Residents may send written comments to the office before the end of the month. The report also lists the staff needed to run the building during its first year.